On Sat., May 6, 2023, 22 top apprentices in brick, tile, and PCC came together at the Training Center to compete in our annual contest of skill for notoriety and top prizes. First-place winners received $900 in prizes and gift cards, second-place winners received $350 in prizes and gift cards, and third-place winners received $200 in prizes and gift cards.

Each competing apprentice was selected by scoring the highest in their class on a timed project evaluation. The contest project builds are also timed and must be completed within four hours. All the brick apprentices were provided with a drawing of a block and brick project, specific to their year of training, that they had to lay out and build. The PCC apprentices demonstrated their skill in tuckpointing, tooling, caulking, flashing, Jahn patching, and in-filling a brick project. The tile apprentices were provided a drawing of a two-wall shower stall where they had to mud a shower pan, plan and lay out their cuts and pattern, and set the floor and walls.

The annual apprentice contest is an opportunity to recognize and award our outstanding apprentices for their efforts in honing their crafts. We couldn't put this contest on without the help of our volunteers and sponsors. A special thank you to all our members who generously donated their time to judge the projects: Matthew Hopkins Jr., Tom Jones, Spenser Dowd, Emilio Garcia, Brohdy Avery, James Thell, Jesse Stonehouse, Eric Andersen, Sarah Arkeh, Darrell Koffler, Corey Brandvold, Ross Gilmer, and Ben Larson. A special thank you to all our signatory contractors who made it possible to award our winners with these exceptional prizes: the Ceramic Tile Fund, Advance Masonry Restoration, Western Specialty Contractors, Northland Concrete & Masonry, B&D, Donald R. Frantz, J&K Masonry, Acme, TR Masonry, Axel Ohman, CD Tile, Gresser, McGough, Benike Construction, and Molin.

Relieve Your Teary, Allergy Eyes

High levels of pollen, mold, dust, and other irritants can make for miserable eyes! These airborne allergens may be the primary culprit of watery, itchy eyes, but relief may be closer than you think.

If allergens are making you weepy, your eyes are telling you something. "Pay attention to your eyes," explains Amy Treski, OD, a VSP network doctor at Optique Boutique in Lawrenceville, New Jersey. "Itching, redness, and swelling of the eyes and eyelids, are common allergy symptoms—itching being the most uncomfortable and swelling the most persistent symptom." For some immediate relief on days when your allergies are mild, try some do-it-yourself remedies.

DIY Remedies for Mild Cases

- Keep the windows shut in your car and home—especially in the early morning hours when pollination tends to occur.
- Wear wrap-around glasses or sunglasses to keep pollen out of your eyes.
- Place a cold compress over your eyes to soothe discomfort.
- Use artificial tears or lubricating eye drops to flush out any irritants.
- Try an over the counter remedy like allergy eye drops, oral antihistamines, or other medication for mild allergies.

Did you know?

Contact lens wearers should wait at least 15 minutes after using any allergy eye drops before putting in lenses.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Doug Schroeder,
President/
Secretary-Treasurer

Members are the Eyes and Ears of the Communities

As 2023 is now in full swing, we look forward to a good year of work for our members. Throughout the past few years, work hours have been creeping up and the local is looking for more opportunities for our contractors and members to bid and work on projects. In less than a year, the local's new organizer has put together a plan to increase membership, gain new contractors, and retain and engage current membership. Even though this is a new position that Jeremy Olson has taken on, we have been receiving positive feedback from the IUBAC on our plan.

With that said, we need feedback from our members in the field. Just like with safety on the jobsite, "See Something, Say Something" we need you to let us know what is going on at your sites and in your communities. We are all organizers, and we all are the local union. You, the members, are the influencers in your communities. Attend and speak at city council meetings, township board meetings, school board meetings, and county board meetings. Demand prevailing wage requirements on the projects that your taxpayer dollars go toward, state that you want to work on these projects in your community. Take leadership roles in your community to ensure that these important issues are being brought to those tables. The economic livelihood of the working class depends on it.

Statewide and Semi-Annual Meetings

For those who attended the Semi-Annual meeting in April, a new format will allow all members to participate in these local meetings. Besides coming to the metro area to attend these meetings, we are offering a virtual platform to participate. Check with your area business rep to attend future meetings at a local labor temple or venue. You will have the opportunity to ask questions, listen and respond to other questions and vote on items before the body. Please remember these meetings are for members only.

If you would like more information on this opportunity, please feel free to call your local business representative or President Schroeder.

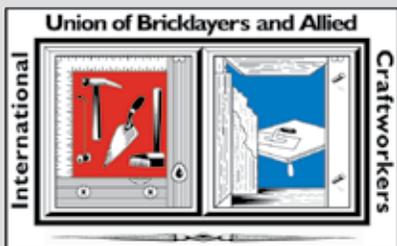

Wage increases are in effect, and these can be seen on your May 1 work week pay stubs. Information on the wage addendums for the local can be found on the IUBAC portal. Please refer to our site for more information on how you can access this site: <https://member.bacweb.org/007BACpr000a.php>

Workday Lunch Breaks are Required!

As work is ramping up, we have been receiving calls and information on members being required to skip their lunch and go home early. A reminder to all that this is against the terms of the contract and members will be brought up on charges for violating the contract terms. All members must take a 30-minute lunch sometime during the workday and cannot apply it at the end of the day to leave early.

If you have information on this type of work practice on your site, contact the hall and a representative will investigate the site and address this with the foreperson and the company for compliance with the contract. Any information received will be confidential and your name will not be given out as the member reporting the issue.

Spring is a Busy Time at the Training Center

In the coming weeks, we will wrap up the year’s apprentice related training, celebrate the successful completion of training for our third-year brick and PCC apprentices and our second-year tile finisher and setter apprentices, host the apprentice contest, and kick off pre-apprenticeship training.

Apprenticeship training is vital to our trades’ and union’s continued success. Each of our apprentices spends 144 hours per training year with us at the training center—they must also complete between 4,000 and 6,000 hours of on-the-job training under the guidance and supervision of fellow journey-workers before journeying out. These first few years of their careers are full of learning opportunities, growth, and challenges, all of which are no small feat. We take pride in seeing our apprentices achieve their first career milestone and would like you to join us in congratulating all of 2023’s completing apprentices!

Third-year brick apprentices: Dylon Collings, Zachary Crandall, Wesley Dodd, Trent Landowski, Brad Mergen, Luke Nakamura, Abel Romandia, Billy Rose, Taylor Thunderhawk, Khalid Salah, and Colton Weckwerth.

Third-year PCC apprentices: Raymond Bercier, Seth Degel, Jonathan Fredericks, Julian Guevara, Sandy Holm, Joseph James, Alex Johnson, Zachary Johnson, Matthew Leo, Dylan Moll, and Michael Starr.

Second-year tile setters: Jack Barclay, Nicholas Ceplecha, Joshua Clepper, Matt Conner, Garrett Hendrickson, Mike Henthorne, Ilya Labotksiy, Cody Maus, Joe Schille, Noah Thompson.

Second-year tile finishers: David Miller and Bryan Winslade.

Pre-apprenticeship: What It Is and Why We Do It

Recruiting new apprentices for our trades has its challenges: the ebb and flow of the peak and slower seasons, the environment, and the work itself. We get interested individuals inquiring about working in our trades year-round. However, the reality of getting someone with no experience a job in the middle of winter is that it’s nearly impossible. We try to keep people interested and encourage them to attend one of the pre-apprenticeships we offer in the spring and summer.

We’re in the fourth week of our spring brick pre-apprenticeship. We’ve taken 16 interested individuals and immersed them in masonry. When they complete their six weeks of training, they’ll have essential experience in various tasks preparing them for a summer of work before they begin their related training. Some of it is the simple stuff, like showing up to the training center before 7 am so they’re prepared to start work right at seven, and some of it is a little more intimidating, like using a saw to cut brick and block. We believe that this brief training makes a new apprentice more valuable to their crew and, thus, the potential to be more successful in our trade.

We’ll be hosting a summer brick pre-apprenticeship beginning June 5.

Brian Sundermann is New Business Rep in South Dakota

Brian Sundermann began tending at Walter Ree Masonry in Sioux Falls, SD, in August 1997 following high school graduation. In 2001 he became an apprentice where he learned the trade. He is approaching his 21st year as a member of Local 1 as well as a longtime employee of Walter Ree Masonry Construction Inc. "I've been blessed with steady work while being a foreman for most of my years," says Sundermann.

In 2009 he "married, Karen, the love of my life" and built their own home. Today life's blessings continue with their three daughters Brooklyn 12, Kelsey 10, and Breana 7. They are all very active in sports and school activities. "We spend lots of time at the soccer fields or basketball court. In our free time we enjoy the lake on the pontoon, and traveling anywhere and everywhere. The next adventure is always the best," he says.

"I'm excited for the opportunity to represent the BAC trade as the business representative for South Dakota. I've always had a passion for work and take great pride as a union tradesman. I'm looking forward to the future in this position."

Welcome, Brian, as a new leader at BAC Local 1 MN/ND/SD.

IMI Masonry Minute

KEY IMI ACTIVITY HIGHLIGHTS

Minnesota IMI Director Mark Swanson promotes the use of masonry and skilled union craftworkers, and provides masonry education and consulting to the design and construction community. His main goal is to create more work opportunities for signatory contractors and members of BAC Local 1 MN/ND/SD.

STRUCTURAL MASONRY COALITION

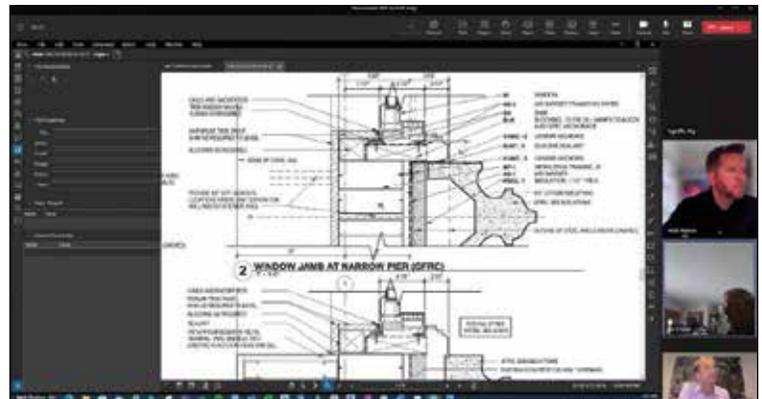

Sam Rubenzer, IMI's consulting structural engineer, has been busy this year. He provides guidance to our local engineers and signatory contractors. This is a value add for belonging to the BAC union. Rubenzer continues to emphasize the value of designing efficiently with structural masonry.

- Signatory Contractor Support – Rubenzer recently provided structural masonry redesign support guidance to a Northern MN signatory contractor to assist them in offering a masonry alternate that has the potential of generating more work opportunities for them.
- MBJ Engineers – He has been assisting MBJ engineers from Rochester to design full masonry lintels on the West Delaware School project.
- HGA – Rubenzer provided guidance to HGA's structural department on a recent project.
- AST Engineers – He had recent conversations with AST engineers on an in-place masonry wall in field mortar tests using C780 on an undisclosed project.

PROJECT SUPPORT

- Locus Architecture, Minneapolis, MN – Provided guidance on brick matching for an undisclosed addition.
- HGA Architects, Minneapolis, MN – Provided guidance to the architect participating in Boston Valley's ACAW program.
- SOM, NYC – Swanson worked with IMI's NYC Director Alan Feltoon, to provide guidance on a new private school project with custom glazed brick shapes and patterns.
- BWBR Architects, St. Paul, MN – 1932 State Office Building near State Capital, interior granite panel renovation. Interior courtyard walls are to match the exterior granite. It's early in the design and the guidance was to replicate with a dimensioned anchored stone, but they were exploring adhered solutions as well.

- LHB Architects, Minneapolis, MN – This effort is taking shape with the BAC/IMI/IMTEF team for providing terra cotta repair and attachment support, guidance and training to the contractor and the design team for a specific project in Minneapolis. Credit goes to Darrel Koffler working with Dominionaire, who reached out to the BAC Training Center Director John Slama, to ask about IMI/IMTEF support for his crew on this project. Koffler and Slama got the response ball rolling.
- Ryan Companies, Minneapolis – Provided guidance on an adhered veneer project. Considering the climate in the Midwest region, IMI suggests the use of a moisture control system, such as a drainage mat, for adhered veneers. However, in arid climates with limited rainfall, where excessive moisture and freeze-thaw cycles are not a concern, installation of drainage mats may or may not be necessary.

IMI EDUCATION AND PROGRAMS

- IMI National Structural Coalition Webinar Series, February 1 – Swanson hosted Sam Rubenzer of Forse Consulting to present to more than 600 attendees "Structural Fundamentals: Masonry Movement Joints." Local MN firms included ISG, BKV Group, Northland Consulting Engineers, and LHB attended.
- IMI MN/ND/SD Masonry Wednesday Webinar Series, February 15 – Todd Kimmel presented on the Passive House Primer on behalf of the Building Energy Exchange. Passive House is a green building standard similar to LEED or Green Globes. The main goal of Passive House is to create highly energy-efficient buildings that require very little energy for heating and cooling. The Passive House standard is a rigorous set of criteria for building design and construction that results in buildings with excellent thermal insulation, airtightness, and ventilation.

- IMI National Structural Coalition Webinar Series, March 1 – Swanson hosted Brady Galinski of Forse Consulting to discuss the design of Tornado Storm Shelters using masonry to 350 architects, engineers, contractors, and owner groups, like the State of Minnesota, University of Illinois, and Nashville Public Schools.
- IMI MN/ND/SD Masonry Wednesday Webinar Series, March 15 – Swanson and IMI Director Scott Conwell, delivered a tile webinar called “Ceramic Tile’s Role in Reducing Carbon and Building Green” to a variety of attendees including KH Engineering, the University of Minnesota, and our own BAC Training instructor Mike Churilla.
- IMI National Structural Coalition Webinar Series, April 5 – Swanson hosted Rubenzer who presented “Sustainable Structural Masonry Strategies” to more than 320 architects, engineers, and owner groups like the University of Minnesota. Rubenzer discussed tips on how to design with masonry to address energy efficiency, carbon neutrality, resiliency strategies, and more. A frequent message on the series is that efficiently designed masonry wall systems can lower a project’s embodied carbon without having to jump through hoops.
- IMI MN/ND/SD Masonry Wednesday Webinar Series, April 19 – Swanson kept the focus on Structural Masonry for the regional audience when he hosted Rubenzer to discuss low carbon solutions with masonry and the SE2050 Challenge.

2023 IMI MASONRY CAMP

Swanson played an integral role in 2023 Masonry Camp in March. This weeklong experience pairs young architects with apprentices to collaborate and learn from each other. The architects provide their design expertise, and the apprentices share their craftworker skill sets with the architects. Final design-build projects were judged by Camilo Garcia of DPR Construction, Eric Oskey, a winner of the JBC Innovation in Masonry award, President Tim Driscoll and IMTEF Director Tony DiPerna. The next camp is in 2025.

ACE MENTOR PROGRAM

Since October 2022, Swanson has mentored Edina High School ACE students as they competed to design the school of the future on the old Sears site by the MN State Capital in St. Paul. ACE stands for Architecture, Construction and Engineering. In April the Edina team presented at the University of Minnesota against other Twin City ACE teams and walked away with first place! Other mentors on the Edina team were from Mortenson, Kraus Anderson, Ryan Companies, and led by Dustin Rehkamp, an architect with Leo A Daly. During the last few years, Swanson has been an ACE mentor at Shakopee, Humboldt, Minneapolis Hub, St. Paul Hub, North St. Paul and Edina high schools.

CODE CHANGES THAT COULD HELP IMPROVE STRUCTURAL MASONRY

IMI continues to work with The Masonry Society (TMS) on code provisions to improve the efficiency of reinforcement installation in structural masonry. Truss-type horizontal joint reinforcement is commonly specified in structural masonry walls, but causes issues with placement of vertical reinforcement within the wall. Vertical reinforcing bars are specified to be centered, but are either shifted to avoid interference with the diagonal cross wires or those diagonal wires are cut for the vertical bars to pass through.

Current masonry code discourages the engineer from using truss-type reinforcement in walls with vertical reinforcement, but designers continue to specify it. Currently, IMI is working with masonry code committees to prohibit the use of truss-type joint reinforcement in masonry where vertical reinforcement is present. Doing so would help make both the design and installation of structural masonry more efficient, while reducing quality control issues and creating fewer mortar droppings from the cross web of truss reinforcement. These small improvements can make a big impact in structural masonry’s desirability for the industry at large.
